

TIMES TOPICS

Landscaping

Latest

Search

Nov. 19, 2025

DESIGN FINDS

Making a Yard ‘Very Wild,’ Yet Still Fit for Entertaining

The architect Morris Adjmi made a steel stove and a fountain key elements of his outdoor space at his Fort Greene, Brooklyn, townhouse.

Oct. 14, 2025

THE KIT

A Landscape Designer’s Essential Tools

Edwina von Gal shares her favorite garments and implements, including the “world’s best trowel.”

Sept. 17, 2025

IN THE GARDEN

In This Class, the Teacher Wants You to Be Wild

A landscaping firm in New York built an educational program to help gardeners make their landscapes more biodiverse.

July 24, 2025

ART OF CRAFT

Sculpting Trees, and Teaching Patience and Focus

For Michael Gibson, topiary art isn’t just clipping branches. It’s a life lesson.

July 4, 2025

14 piscinas fascinantes

Volvemos a visitar los paraísos de los bañistas, desde Malibú a Tánger.

Read in English

July 1, 2025

GREAT SPACES

Our Favorite Pools

We revisit swimmers' paradises from Malibu to Tangier.

Leer en español

April 9, 2025

THE ETHICIST

Our Gardener Wants to Avoid Taxes. Should We Pay Him in Cash?

The magazine's Ethicist columnist on whether to help a worker reduce his tax burden.

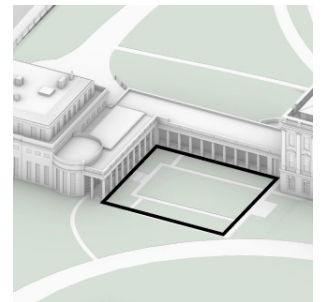

Feb. 17, 2025

Trump se plantea pavimentar el Jardín de Rosas al estilo de Mar-a-Lago

El presidente estadounidense ha estado discutiendo planes para retirar el césped de uno de los lugares más emblemáticos de la Casa Blanca y poner una superficie dura que sirva de patio como el de su casa y club de Florida.

Read in English

Feb. 14, 2025

The White House Rose Garden in Photos: A Showcase of Presidential Power

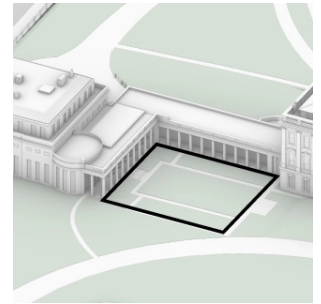

A look at key moments at the White House's signature outdoor setting amid reports that it may be turned into a Mar-a-Lago-like patio.

Feb. 14, 2025

Seeking a Mar-a-Lago Vibe, Trump Considers Paving Over Grass in Rose Garden

The president has been discussing plans to rip up the grass in one of the White House's most iconic locations and put in a hard surface to serve as a patio like the one at his Florida home and club.

Leer en español

Jan. 15, 2025

Calder Gardens Names a Curatorial Leader and Sets September Opening

Juana Berrío, currently at the Whitney Independent Study Program, will be senior director of programs at the cultural center in Philadelphia.

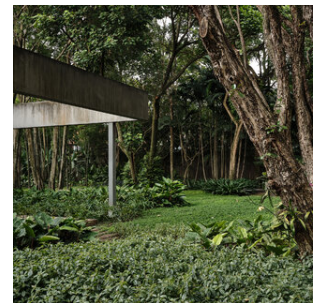

March 22, 2024

ON GARDENING

How Do You Build a Jungle?

In the cities of Brazil, a landscape architect creates abundant private gardens that rewild the terrain from which these metropolises grew.

March 5, 2024

Sara Zewde Sows, and Dia Beacon Reaps

On eight acres, a landscape architect challenges ideas about the legacy of the land, the museum's history and climate change.

Oct. 3, 2023

Harriet Pattison, 94, Dies; Landscape Architect With a Tie to Louis Kahn

After having a son with the famous architect, she built a career, often collaborating with Mr. Kahn on projects, including a New York memorial to Franklin D. Roosevelt.

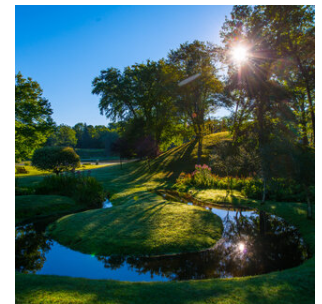

Aug. 2, 2023

IN THE GARDEN

Painting With Light: This Garden Shows How It's Done

Innisfree, in Millbrook, N.Y., “doesn’t look like other gardens.” That’s by design.

July 21, 2023

In the British Countryside, a Home That Was Once an Ice Cream Factory

The designers behind the furniture and lighting studio Pinch have transformed part of a onetime dairy farm in southwest England into a layered, lushly landscaped retreat.

July 4, 2023

SQUARE FEET

Corporate Landscaping Lets Its Hair Down

More companies are eschewing manicured grass in favor of native plants, a shift driven by the environmental costs of installing and maintaining lawns.

March 25, 2023

‘Vendedor de paisajes’: la huella perdurable de un migrante japonés en México

Cada primavera, las jacarandas florecen en Ciudad de México. Las coloridas flores son el legado vivo del jardinero Tatsugoro Matsumoto.

Read in English

March 25, 2023

‘Merchant of Landscapes’: The Lasting Footprint of a Japanese Gardener in Mexico

Every spring, jacarandas bloom in Mexico City. The colorful purple flowers are a living legacy of a Japanese gardener.

Leer en español

June 27, 2022

Redesign Around Notre-Dame to Keep Tourists Moving and Lower Temperatures

Plans call for more trees around the famed Paris cathedral, which is being rebuilt after a devastating 2019 fire, and for a cooling system in front of the building.

